Waterfront Parks

Bert Winters Park

With the Atlantic Ocean, The Intracoastal Waterway, and many freshwater lakes, Palm Beach County is home to thousands of waterfront acreage. Bert Winters

Atlantic Dunes Park

Park in Juno Beach, the ideal park for any boating shoot, is located in the northern part of the County with 805 feet of Intracoastal Waterway frontage making it very accessible to get your waterskiing shot. Furthermore there are boat launching ramps and plenty of space for parking to accommodate any size production vehicle. In the west, South Bay's R.V. Park sits on 10,000 feet of fresh water lake frontage and pastoral campground sites. This park is a prime example of the County's diversity with an "Anywhere America" look, nonspecific to a tropical region. Nestled on 500 feet of ocean frontage in the southern part of the County, the very film-friendly Atlantic Dunes Park in Delray Beach is the epitome of a serene beach experience, complete with a boardwalk nature trail leading to the elevated wooded area. For more info on shooting at these parks, call The FTC at 561.233.1000.

SHOOTIN' HOOPS AT PATCH REEF PARK

Former New York Knicks star and basketball legend, Alan Houston, took to the courts at Boca Raton's Patch Reef Park to shoot an infomercial with IntelliVision of Delray Beach. Houston's famous long range shot was captured for the shoot. Elisabeth D'Orazio, President of IntelliVision, said "Patch Reef Park's courts are well maintained and beautifully surrounded, exactly what we were looking for to make this shoot a success." ### G-STAR STUDENTS SHUT OUT THE COMPETITION

G-Star School of the Arts students swept The Entertainment Industry Incubator's "Collaboration...a short film contest" by finishing first, second, and third in the student category. The contest consists of teams creating a five-minute film based on an assigned theme, with a chance to win the prize of having their films critiqued by senior industry executives from companies such as Lions Gate Films and HBO. The winning films, themed "Power" and shot solely in Palm Beach County, were ID, written by Ariel Beermann-Young and directed by David Lozano, Shot written and directed by Angie Giammarco, and Left or Right written by Lalo Rodriguez and directed by Raphael Canuto. G-Star's Founder Greg Hauptner states, "I have never witnessed teenagers work so hard, so long and with such focus."
